

EUROVENT – CERTIFIED QUALITY

Costan offers high quality products with Eurovent-certified performance - refrigerated counters with low energy consumption guaranteed. Costan is determined to offer only the most excellent, certified products. This is why the brand joined the Eurovent association, which represents top refrigeration and air conditioning manufacturers at European level. The association has its own certification body for testing and guaranteeing quality and performance characteristics of the various products. Having obtained technical data from the manufacturer, Eurovent selects sample products for which independent laboratory TNO will verify the data according to international requirements (EN ISO 23953). For consistent classification, refrigeration counters are measured against a reference value for energy consumption, based on normal market consumption. On the resulting scale, market average for units exactly corresponds to energy class D. Some Costan products reach class A, like Lion Narrow, whose energy consumption is at least 45% below average. Encouraged by renewed success and approval from Eurovent, Costan is happy to face the increasingly competitive marketplace every day, with its advanced, innovative and certified products.
